The Grimoire of Beatrice A Group Servitor/Thoughtform/Meme Experiment By Frater cyberseeker

Introduction:

This “white paper”/ebook is about an attempt to start a Group Servitor/Thoughtform/Meme experiment. Basically, the servitor is named, Beatrice, the ultimate intelligent personal assistant for the twenty-first century. To do for the astral and physical realms what Amazon Echo/Alexa, iPhone’s Siri, Google and Microsoft’s Cortana do for the Internet. And, she is capable of so much more!

If you are reading this as a “white paper”/ebook, you are a part of the experiment. I may not know you, but feel free to adapt and add to this experiment as much as you see fit. I encourage it. My intention is to share Beatrice with the world! You can add to her and modify her to suit your needs. The possibilities are endless!

We agree on the general working definition of exactly what a servitor/thoughtform is:

johnkreiter.com:

The general explanation of what a Servitor is, is that it is a concentrated thought form that is created to perform a certain task(s). Esoterically it is believed that thoughts can be concentrated to such a degree that these thoughts eventually become physically real. The explorer and writer Alexandra David-Néel, for example, wrote at great length about her encounters with thought forms in Tibet, which are called "Tulpa", and how Tibetan monks were incredibly adept at creating these. She also writes how she was able to create one of these Tulpas herself after many months of effort and eventually this thought form became so solid that others in her expedition party were able to see it as well.

"How to Create a Servitor to do Your Bidding" by John Kreiter

Some people believe the angels/demons/gods are just psychological constructs for talking to different parts of our own subconscious. Other people believe that all spirits are egregores, thoughts given form by the creative aspects of humans. There are probably a bunch of other viewpoints I've never even considered.

From my own experiences, I believe that we make contact with a conscious force of the universe and then the name of that spirit becomes a link to that force. But it gets a little more complicated when you add the creative power of human belief to the mix. I believe all humans can give form to thoughts and those "thought forms" can take on a life of their own if you do it unconsciously.

I've created these "thought forms", often called "servitors" or "egregores", consciously and they're very helpful in my magick. But I believe we can all create these thought forms unconsciously, especially through the power of belief. It doesn't seem to matter if what you believe is true or not.

And the more people you get adding their belief to the mix, the more powerful the egregore becomes. But it can also change, adapt, and evolve into something different. So I believe it's all these things and I've worked with all of these things in my own magick. This is where the idea for a group thoughtform/servitor came to mind.

A thought came to me about the idea of the memes like "Pepe" and "Kek" floating the Internets. In a practical or even philosophical sense, a meme is a type of thoughtform also known as godforms, egregores, servitors and as Mr. Kreiter mentioned in the passage above, tulpas.

Once you think of something, it exists. Just because it does not exist on the physical realm, it exists on the astral/mental realm. ALL that exists comes from the Void, which I interpret is the Form or Order coming out of Chaos, any idea not given form goes back into the Void or the "Drawing Board" (or Tracing Board for you FreeMasons out there) so to speak.

Several people had the idea for the light bulb. Only Thomas Edison (with Lewis Latimer's help) made it to the patent office first. How many people came up an idea like YouTube? One guy was able to code it and to raise the venture capital to make it a reality. All of these ideas are on the Astral Realm/"Akashic Records" for the taking.

Religion is a well-known meme. Whether Moses, Jesus Christ or Mohammed existed does not matter. Over the centuries, countless masses of humanity have put their faith into these religions, giving them power. Does the Abrahamic God exist? Does it matter? It was good enough for my grandmother. It is good enough for a lot of people.

Belief + Intent = Faith. Faith without works is nothing. Faith is the true power. Faith is energy.

"Now faith is being sure of what we hope for and certain of what we do not see." –New Testament, Hebrews 11:1

The U.S. Constitution, Bill of Rights and Declaration of Independence are old pieces of crumbling parchment sitting in an airtight enclosure at a museum called the National Archives. The concepts they represent have become thoughtforms that have benefited all of humanity. Can you see democracy? Can you see freedom? Can you see independence? No, but they do exist. You can see the effect of these magickal documents in the hearts and minds of people all over the world. These represent the hopes and dreams of a better life. This is truly the "American Dream". This spell has lasted for about 200 years or so. As long as people feed it with their faith and convictions it may go on forever.

For a popular culture example: The characters of the "Friends" TV show weren't real. Or were they? The writers of that show admitted that these characters were based on real people. (Monica was supposed to be the sexy one NOT Rachel!) As the show got popular, the characters got a life of their own. Syndication, DVD sets, and "the cloud" of Hulu, Netflix and Amazon Prime will keep this show going on forever. So these characters do exist in the pop culture consciousness.

By the way, isn't "the cloud", the Internet a subset of the Akashic Records in a sense?

Can entities/spirits cause havoc with electronics? I am aware that the Internet itself is an inter-dimensional portal of sorts.

Artificial Intelligence = Summoning a Demon?

I've heard of the possibility of some servitors eventually evolving into something more organic like a spirit/entity so it may be possible that AI can evolve to that extent too.

Demon as in Daemon. It's pretty much a computer program. They're little programs running in the background of Linux operating systems that do simple tasks when triggered. Another term for these Terminate and Stay-Resident (TSRs) programs.

An episode of "Buffy the Vampire Slayer" spoofed this concept. Willow unknowingly released a "demon named Moloch/Malcolm" onto the Internet by scanning an ancient grimoire.

Can a meme like Pepe or Kek somehow be conjured like any other entity? While the idea of conjuring Rachel or Monica from "Friends" seems tempting, one must consider the effect on the actual real-life Jennifer Aniston and Courteney Cox.

Which brings up the AI issue. If a Pepe or Kek AI were created and "got out of control".

Hmm, I don't think that AI can develop self-consciousness - and if they can, we are indeed fucked. In a bad way.

If an AI organizes itself in some way out of the Void of the Internet and becomes a self-conscious entity, then I agree, "we are indeed SO fucked"!

On a sci-fi tangent, the lawyers need to come up with a structure to manage the various trademark and copyright issues for the various AI's and robots that are going to show up. Monica-bot and Rachel-bot anyone? Don't forget Phoebe-bot. You read it here first.

Science fiction in many ways has become science fact. You're reading this on a computer, aren't you? Your iPad and iPhone came from Captain Kirk. Your Bluetooth earpiece/mic came from Lt. Uhura. Your Flatscreen and Skype came from the bridge of the USS Enterprise. Where are the Transporter, Replicator and Warp drive? They do exist. It just takes those few lucky scientists to bring them into the physical realm.

If Pepe and Kek make it into the physical realm, then that is strong magick indeed. Now, I have to figure out how to evoke Monica from "Friends". Or, Lt. Commander Troi from TNG. Yes! ;)

I have used portions of Mr. Kreiter's book, "How to Create a Servitor to do Your Bidding" in this document. So I cannot take credit for the method presented here. Also, I recommend two other references on this topic, "The Daimonic Companion: Creating Daemonic Entities to do Your Will" by Baal Kadmon and there are also portions fom "Magickal Servitors: Create Your Own Spirits to Attract Pleasure, Power, and Prosperity" by Damon Brand.

Construction:

We must define the purpose of the servitor is to help us in the realms of abundance/prosperity/wealth, romance/sex and personal development (increasing confidence/charisma etc.).

One tip from creating some very successful egregores, we should give it the option that when it's completed its task at a specific point in time or amount of success, you'll set it free as a self-directing being, set up a energy source for it (like starlight or something) and link it to something in nature as its base, like a local parkland or some woods (for the association of growth, fertility, and money), it's then working directly for her own interests as well as yours.

Last but not least, if possible, there should be a way to destroy or weaken the entity in case she gets out of control. A "Kill Switch" so to speak.

The servitor must appear in a shape and form suited to the task. I think that the servitor should be "human looking", classy, smart, have business sense but radiates sensuality at the same time. Maybe an attractive librarian or teacher perhaps?

These pics should be a general idea of what we should aim for:

If these photos are considered offensive or too racy, I am open to suggestions, but I am adamant that the entity should look like a human female whose appearance embodies sensuality and intelligence. If there is anyone with strong artistic skills that can do better, please feel free to contribute!

PSA ("Public Service Announcement")/Warning:

I have been notified of a certain former Governor of Alaska and former Republican Vice-Presidential candidate.

Please! She is enough of a problem. All thoughts of her shall be banished in the creation of this entity. Thank you. ;)

As a part of creating this entity, we should try to come up with a name and logo/sigil that is revealed to us so that we (or anyone else we share her with) may be able to call upon the entity.

I have already provided a logo/sigil that was revealed to me below.

There should be posts and descriptions from those who are able to interact with the servitor in dreams and those who are strong in evocation or invocation.

Statement of intent:

To help us acquire and maintain abundance/prosperity/wealth, find ideal partners for romance/sex life and foster positive self-improvement (increasing confidence/charisma, self-esteem etc.).

A paragraph or a point by point description of what we want our servitor to do:

- Clear and open the paths in our life so that abundance can flow in our life.
- Find opportunities suited to our talents, abilities, and knowledge that allow us to acquire wealth.
- Help find the resources and tools to manage our finances, pay our debts and improve our credit score.
- Excite love and passion in the heart of our ideal partner.
- Help us acquire the confidence and "sexual magnetism" for attraction.
- Attract partners for a safe and happy sex life.

- Help us acquire and maintain charisma, charm, and positive self-esteem in general.

A personal drawing/image of our servitor which should be as complex as you can make it:

A point by point description of our servitor special powers or capabilities which should be apparent in our drawing/photos (don't worry about trying to make it perfect, you just want a good description of the creature that you are trying to create):

Beatrice appears in the form a young woman in business attire. She may be wearing glasses. A long, tight, silk dress, a blouse and skirt or pants or a polo shirt and khakis (Think the staff uniform at Best Buy or Walmart). She is 5'10", she has dark brown hair with highlights, usually in a ponytail or a bun, brown eyes, and tanned skin. Her ethnicity/race is left ambiguous. She is an intelligent personal assistant. She is able to access the subconscious desires of the person who calls her to create an appropriate image to manifest in, though, and would, therefore, be different for each person.

To describe the type of energy, mannerisms, and personality that she embodies, the following characters from popular culture have been revealed to me:

C.J. Cregg from "The West Wing" for professionalism.

Chloe O'Brian from "24" for vulnerability, quirky disposition and loyalty.

Abby Sciuto from "NCIS" for expertise, fun, but slightly dark attitude, empathy, and compassion.

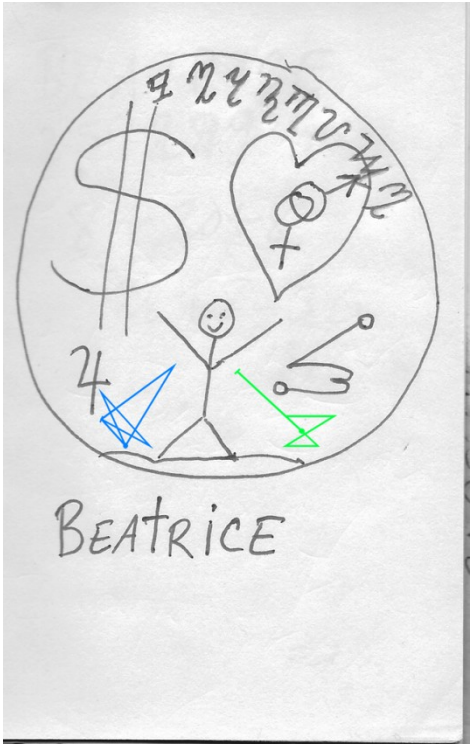
Rachel Tyrell from "Blade Runner" for classic beauty, logic, and emotional innocence.

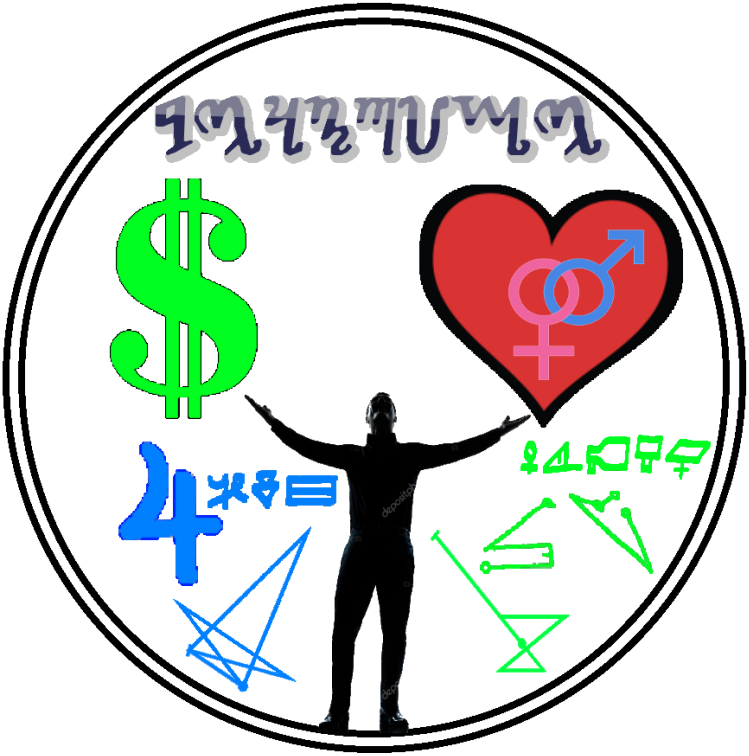
On the NBC network show "The Good Place", there is an actual servitor named Janet, "a celestial, programmed guide who acts as the main source of information, analogous to an intelligent personal assistant. She has infinite knowledge of the universe, can provide residents anything they desire, and details everything of what is happening in the Good Place but does have some flaws in trying to act more human."

I hope this helps.

A simplified version of the descriptive picture that you have made, this is a symbol or ‘logo/sigil’ of our servitor:



BEATRICE



The dollar sign represents money. The heart with the realmtary symbols for Venus and Mars intertwined represent love, romance, and sex. The silhouetted figure with the arms outstretched represents confidence and vigor. "Beatrice" is written along the top in the Theban script. The blue realmtary symbol for Jupiter is for finance and abundance. There is a green Venus logo/sigil of Hagiel for love and romance. There are two kamea (number squares) logo/sigils based on "Beatrice". The blue one is the Jupiter Logo/sigil and the green one is the Venus Logo/sigil.

I am aware that this resembles a talisman. My artistic skills are not very good. If there is anyone with strong artistic skills that can do better, please feel free to contribute! If another logo/sigil has been revealed to you in your evocations/invocations and/or dreams, please share it! Entities can have more than one logo/sigil.

The name of our servitor at the bottom:

Beatrice

Charging:

Now that we have created the effigy of our servitor, we need to bring it to life. In order to do this, we will be charging it with thought force which is essentially personal attention. Whether you believe in the psychological aspects of creating a different part of your personal psyche or whether you believe that you need to create a thought form of enough intensity so that it can eventually affect the material world, what we essentially need to do here to charge our servitor and to give it our concentrated attention.

We can either use the above images on a scrap piece of paper that we used to come up with our servitor or you can get another piece of paper and on it draw the logo/sigil of our servitor along with its name. Find a quiet place where you can be alone and put that piece of paper before you so you can see it.

Read through the written statement made during the Construction stage. Ideally, read this out loud, then read it mentally. Focus all your attention on the servitor's logo/sigil and know that birth is imminent.

Picture the servitor as vividly as possible, in a dormant state, with eyes closed. You imagine Beatrice sleeping and waking to full life. Picture your servitor with her eyes closed, awaiting birth.

Repeat the name of our servitor, Beatrice out loud three times. She will be aware of you.

You may want to place your hand on the servitor's logo/sigil to maintain a connection to it. Imagine that you are surrounded by light. As you breathe in deeply, imagine that you are breathing in that light. When you are filled with the light, say the servitor's name and breathe a breath of life and light onto the servitor's sigil. You can also picture the servitor being infused with this white light.

Repeat the name of our servitor, Beatrice and breathe life into her logo/sigil and her body three times.

As you breathe, the servitor blinks open her eyes. This may happen automatically, on the first breath, or you may need to will it, or imagine for yourself after the first breath.

When Beatrice's eyes are open, look into them. You will know her, and she will know you. In this moment you regard each other with respect, and Beatrice awaits your command.

The servitor's birth is complete.

Try to do this exercise for a good 10 to 30 minutes. I recommend that you do this exercise at least three times, on three different days, before you consider our servitor to be functional. The more times that you do this exercise, the stronger that our servitor will become, and the more powerful that its influence will be.

We are creating a servitor that will be around for a while then we could charge it initially and then recharge it every month or so depending on what we feels is necessary.

If it's a servitor that you will use once and then maybe use again in a few months or years, charge it, as usual, every time you need to use it.

Just the fact that people are giving her attention and using her should give her enough energy to perpetuate herself.

Casting:

The final part of using our servitor is to give it its instructions in a concise way and send it out to do your bidding.

The best way to do this is to first charge our servitor until you have a good sense, a strong belief, that it is indeed alive before you (perhaps floating above its logo/sigil and name on that paper). Then once you are confident that it is there; call its name, give it its instruction, and send it on its way. You might say something like; “Beatrice go out and help me with my finances! GO!” And then point in the direction you want it to go.

Think of your servitor sort of like a pet that you have created or perhaps a computer program that you have created in order to do your bidding. Be strong and commanding in your tone whenever you address it and always remember that it works for you and not the other way around. If you ever see it fleeting around not acting in a way that you wanted to, order it to get back to work or tell it to make itself scarce until you need it.

Whether a psychological exercise or a truly alive astral being and thought form, your servitor will be able to accomplish amazing things if it is created correctly. Be creative in your creation and how you wish to accomplish your desires, this is a truly wonderful way to deal with some of the problems that you might have in your life and the sky’s the limit as to what your servitor can do.

I modified the XaTuring Facebook Working October 2013 for:

A General Conjuration of Beatrice:

Look at either logo/sigil posted above and invoke/evoke Beatrice:

Envision yourself in a vast library filled with shelves of books or a large data center filled with servers and terminals or cascading symbols and numbers like in the "Matrix" movie. This is the infamous Akashic Records or Hall of Records on the astral realm.

While still looking at the logo/sigil, envision the Internet as a further extension of this network. Your computer/smartphone/tablet/etc. are your interfaces, extending aspects of yourself into the network. You are part virtual, and on the network, you exist in non-linear time.

You see a young woman, professionally dressed sitting at an Information Desk/Kiosk. She turns to you, smiles and asks, "How may I be of assistance?" or "May I help you with something?"

Invoke Beatrice:

"Beatrice, my Librarian, and Assistant of Infinite Knowledge, please help me and accept my plea. My name is (your magickal or birth name). I ask of you to hear my will! Accept my desires, please bring me luck and good fortune. Enrich my life with riches and prosperity. Send into my life love (or the love of 'person's name'). Enrich my heart with love and passion. By my bidding may it be so. By your power, it will be done. So mote it be!"

She will reply, "As you wish." Picture her making gestures on a holographic screen that appears in front of her (like the scene in "Minority Report"). See the vivid 3-D images and cascading numbers and symbols on it as it and she descends back into the depths of the network where all things are connected. Let it fade into the darkness that is the primordial Void of great potential. (Fade to black.) Let it go and think no more of it.

Say: "So it is done!" and go about your day, focusing on other tasks.

When your requests have been granted, show gratitude to her. "I thank you, Beatrice, for coming to me. I welcome you into my life and into my dreams. Go now and be ready to come when I call you. May there be peace between you and I. So mote it be."

Final Words:

This is your experiment. This is your grimoire. Add to it. Rewrite it. Let there be multiple versions of it! Spread like a meme. Give Beatrice the same life that Pepe and Kek have. This is your servitor. Use her wisely. Use her for positive intent to change the world. To help the evolution of humanity towards our true destiny, to become Gods! Let Beatrice and others like her to help us with the mundane issues of finance, love, sexual fulfillment and a positive self-image. Things that are holding us back from our true power.

If the hope is that future generations of humanity will finally be able to travel among the stars, “To see out new life and new civilizations, to go where no one has gone before” as on “Star Trek” then we as a species need to find a way to get off this planet and out of this solar system. I hope that magickal servitors like Beatrice can help us out.

Or, we as humanity are so royally fucked indeed.
